St. George

Sometime in 1945 the Harold and Maxine Stowell family moved to St. George a small town of under 4,000 people. The family would spend the next seven years there.

Today St. George has 72,897 resident and is considered a very popular tourist destination. The climate is a mild Mediterranean one. While the record high for June was 115, the average daily temperature the third week of June is 82 degrees.

St. George is home to several museums and art galleries, including the St. George Art Museum, the Rosenbruch Wildlife Museum, and the St. George Dinosaur Discovery Site. Coyote Gulch Art Village is in nearby Ivins.

In addition to art galleries and museums there are three performing arts centers: the St. George Opera House, the Electric Theater, and the Tuacahn Amphitheater in Snow Canyon.
